A Magnificent World Book Day!

What a fantastic day we've had celebrating World Book Day!

It was an absolute joy to see the children immersed in their favourite stories, dressed as beloved book characters as they made their way around the school. One of the most magical moments was our whole-school assembly, where children gathered to see staff share snippets from their favourite books—a wonderful way to inspire a love of reading!

The children also had the chance to buddy up with a different year group for a special Reading for Pleasure session. It was heart-warming to see them sharing stories, discovering new books, and experiencing the pure joy of reading together. The photographs from the day truly capture the excitement and delight on their faces as they connected through books.

A huge thank you to everyone who helped make World Book Day 2025 such a memorable celebration of reading! Mrs. Butter

Trespassing

We have had reports from a local resident of some SVCS pupils hiding in the hedge directly outside the school which marks the boundary of a private garden.

Please can you remind your children that it's not acceptable to play in other people's gardens not only because of trespassing, but also for safety reasons as there could be broken glass and other sharp objects lying around. Thank you.
